

MISSION

California Transit Works! is a new California consortium of transit agencies, transit unions, and colleges focused on transit workforce development. Our mission is to educate, advocate, and advise transit agencies and their unions in building worker-centered training partnerships, as a key strategy in meeting industry demand for qualified workers to provide reliable and effective clean energy transit services.

WHAT WE DO

- We assist transit agencies and their unions in developing high roads training partnerships.
- We summarize best practices to assist the transit industry in developing a high roads partnership approach.
- We engage transit agencies and unions in a statewide discussion on workforce development as a strategy for the future of transit.

OUR APPROACH

- Utilize processes that draw deeply upon the knowledge and skills of frontline people who are closest to the work.
- Promote ongoing health and wellness strategies for workers in this high stress industry, as the foundation for professional public transit service.
- Address key workplace and industry issues through positive, results-oriented, measurable actions that meet the interests and needs of transit partnership stakeholders.

JOIN US

Transit agencies and transit unions are cordially invited to join California Transit Works! (CTW). CTW is based on the actual experiences of its founding members in building effective, worker centered labor/management training programs. Consortium members receive expert technical assistance in building their labor/management training projects, and access to educational workshops and materials.
